

Outreach Lecturing Fund

▶ Fulbright Visiting Scholar from Uganda lectures to university students through the Outreach Lecturing Fund

Through the Outreach Lecturing Fund, you can invite a Fulbright Visiting Scholar to:

- Offer department or institution-wide lectures to students and/or faculty.
- Speak on the history and culture of their country.
- Meet with faculty to exchange ideas and engage in informal discussions with students.
- Engage the wider community around your campus including local school districts.

▶ To learn more about the Fulbright Outreach Lecturing Fund, email olf@iie.org or call 202-686-6232.

The Outreach Lecturing Fund is an opportunity for U.S. higher education institutions to host Fulbright Visiting Scholars already in the United States, for short-term speaking engagements. Institutions apply to host a scholar for 2 to 6 days, and plan activities that would enhance campus participation in international educational exchange.

Responsibilities of Institutions and Organizations Hosting OLFs

Institutions wishing to invite a Fulbright Scholar for an Outreach Lecturing Fund visit should develop a comprehensive plan of activities and arrangements to share with the scholar well in advance of the proposed visit. The OLF grant amount is intended to cover travel costs associated with the visit. Host institutions are expected to cover the following expenses for the scholar:

- » Local transportation
- » Lodging accommodations
- » Meals

Supplemental funding for local transportation and lodging may be available upon request of the host at time of application.

Special consideration will be given to campuses that have not previously participated in Fulbright exchanges. These include many Minority Serving Institutions, Liberal Arts Colleges, Women's Colleges, Art Schools and Community Colleges.

How U.S. institutions can utilize OLF visits
